

Strike threatens Europe

LONDON (AP) — The back-lash from French strikes has hit other European nations, raising fears Thursday of serious trade tie-ups and other economic problems if the turmoil is prolonged.

Trade between France and its neighbors slowed as ships, trains and trucks loaded with goods were stalled. Firms depending on French imports were dipping into inventory stocks.

But reports were spotty as business and government offices in several countries were closed for the Ascension Day holiday.

British authorities estimated more than $12 million worth of goods in British-French trade were either piled at docks on both sides of the English Channel or held up at factories because of the strikes.

Rail traffic from West Germany to France was stopped, with German freight trains sidetracked near the border. A number of German ships were tied up in French ports unable to unload or clear port. Some German trucks were getting through to France.

Trucks trying to get into France from the Italian border were backed up for miles. Lines of freight cars packed sidings and yards. Air traffic was also halted.

Shoppers and local businessmen in neighboring countries began to feel the pinch of the French strikes.

French strawberries were missing from German markets. With the German crop not due for another 10 days, Italian strawberries were imported to capture the early market.

Swiss gasoline stations near the French border were doing thriving business with French motorists, who were unable to buy gasoline nearer home.

Swiss-French trade was continuing both ways, with all goods handled by truck.

The French Renault automobile plant in Belgium stopped its assembly lines Thursday, throwing some 1,500 employees out of work.

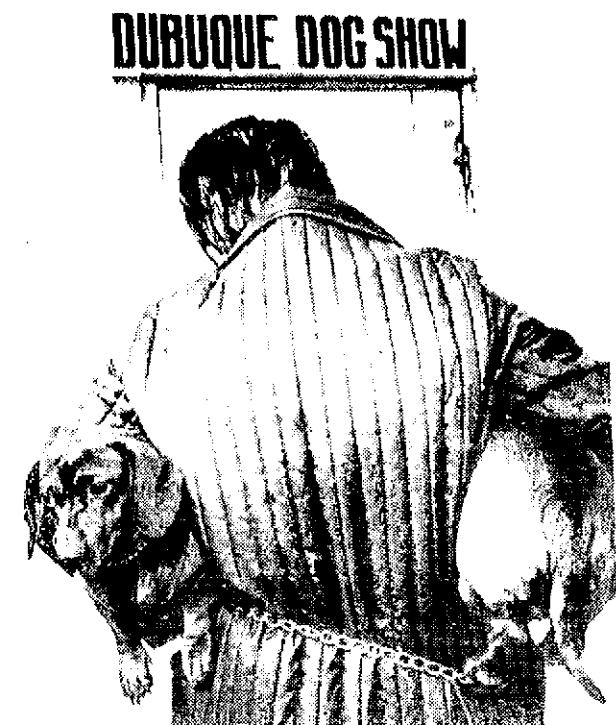

There was concern in Europe's business communities that the French crisis, even if settled soon, may have a longer term effect on Europe.

Remaining tariff barriers among the six member nations of the European Common Market are supposed to come down July 1. But the French could force postponement of this target date, if they feel their competitive position with the others, Belgium, Germany, Italy, Luxembourg and the Netherlands, is weakened by the current crisis.

That position is at stake in any settlement between striking workers and the French government that would permit rising wages and prices in France.

LBJ vows U.S. won't lose war

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said Thursday that while America still hopes for peace through the Paris negotiations, "We shall not be defeated on the battlefield while the talks go on."

The President's public notice to Hanoi, in brief remarks honoring the heroes of Khe Sanh, came as U.S.-North Vietnamese envoys at the French capital headed into their third week of discussions in apparent deadlock.

An accompanying administration warning to the American people to brace for a protracted period of hard fighting while talking was delivered by Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford in asking a Senate appropriations subcommittee for nearly $80 billion for the U.S. armed services next year.

With North Vietnam infiltrating men and supplies into the south instead of cutting back in response to Johnson's March 31 bombing curtailment, "more hard fighting undoubtedly lies ahead," Clifford testified.

He added: "These developments, while disappointing, should not be surprising. The North Vietnamese have consistently stated that their intention was to fight and negotiate, and we must be prepared, both physically and psychologically, to do the same."

Johnson spoke at a White House ceremony in bestowing a presidential unit citation for gallantry in action on the 20th Marine Regiment. These 3rd Division troops at the outpost just below the Demilitarized Zone between the two Vietnams successfully withstood a heavy North Vietnamese siege for seven weeks earlier this year.

The President said the GIs at Khe Sanh greatly strengthened the U.S. initiative toward talks with North Vietnam. "For they vividly demonstrated to the enemy the utter futility of his attempts to win a military victory in the South."

Hubert H. Humphrey

Humphrey invades RFK-land

NEW YORK (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey campaigned on the sidewalks and byways of Robert F. Kennedy's New York Thursday and called for a mutual reduction of East-West troops facing each other in Europe.

"We must also do our utmost to communicate to the leaders of the Soviet Union that we seek such reductions of forces and armaments as tangible means of reduction of tension," Humphrey said. "I do not see this an impossibility," he told the American Iron and Steel Institute.

Humphrey's remarks were made in a prepared speech.

The speech was Humphrey's first foreign policy address since he declared himself a presidential candidate.

Humphrey flew in Wednesday, without public announcement, to be on hand early for a round of meetings as well as a motorcade and a street-corner rally to open the New York Humphrey headquarters in the Baltimore Hotel.

Humphrey rode in an open car in the trip from the Waldorf-Astoria to the Baltimore with a sound system blaring "come and meet Hubert Humphrey, your vice president... your next president."

Hundreds lined the sidewalk. A band played. Confetti fell. Girls in green and blue Humphrey dresses — including four stewardesses from the chartered campaign jet — passed out buttons. Police began pushing newsmen behind barricades as Humphrey started speaking, and Humphrey shook scores of hands — some of them holding pro-Kennedy or anti-Humphrey posters.

Kennedy, a major rival of Humphrey for the Democratic presidential nomination, has accused Humphrey of handing out "pabulum and tranquillizers" in practicing his "politics of happiness."

And one sign among the dozens that faced the vice president was "Hubert Humphrey is a stalking horse for Polyantha."

Humphrey told the crowd that he had been asked a number of times if he felt strange coming into the state of another candidate for the nomination.

DeGaulle speaks today

PARIS (AP) — Several hundred students clashed with police here Thursday night in a renewal of the violence that has led France into social and industrial chaos.

A battle developed near the St. Michael Bridge over the River Seine in the wake of a Cabinet meeting at which President Charles de Gaulle conferred with his ministers on his plans for dealing with the strike crisis, the gravest of his 10-year-old regime.

De Gaulle is to address the nation in a radio-television broadcast at 8 p.m. Friday and is expected to announce the decisions at that time. There was no public hint in advance of what he intends to propose.

Students marched toward the St. Michael Bridge from the Latin Quarter, but were forced back by police hurling tear gas grenades.

Their numbers mounting by the minutes, the youths dug out cobblestones and ripped away metal tree guards for makeshift weapons. They erected a small street barricade. Sidewalk cafe owners pulled in their chairs and slammed down their metal shutters.

The spark that set off the trouble was not immediately made known. But students are angry at the government's ban on one of their leaders from France and planned a big-scale demonstration for Friday.

French analysts considered the government, which has already promised academic reforms to meet the demands of demonstrating students, will have to reappraise its entire economic policy.

Mass demonstrations of peasants have been set for Friday throughout the country in support of demands for higher prices for farm produce and in solidarity with the estimated eight million striking industrial workers.

18 'Poor' arrested; others leave quietly

WASHINGTON (AP) — A welfare protest on Capitol Hill produced the first arrests of the Poor People's Campaign Thursday.

Eighteen demonstrators singing outside a House office building were jailed on charges of unlawful assembly, a misdemeanor.

Only the intervention of a congressman and a promise by the Rev. Jesse Jackson, a leader of the campaign, that other demonstrators would leave quietly prevented the arrest of perhaps 50 more.

The arrests and a hint by Jackson that Negro leaders are looking beyond the current campaign to an economic boycott in the nation's major cities marked a day of tension in the drive by the poor for jobs and income.

"This campaign has got to bring the problems of the poor to the attention of everyone in the country," said George A. Wiley, another campaign leader, after the arrests. "and everyone should know this is only the beginning."

Congressional leaders announced the formation of an official bipartisan group of 30 senators and representatives to provide "a line of communication" between Congress and the Poor People's Campaign.

The committee is headed by Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., with Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., and Reps. Charles C. Diggs, D-Mich., and Ogden H. Reid, R-N.Y., named cochairs. Brooke and Diggs are Negroes.

Brooke said the committee will visit Resurrection City, the Poor People's encampment in West Potomac park and try to provide a forum to discuss "realistic legislative and administrative proposals" to help solve some of the problems and national needs of the poor.

Wiley sparked the confrontation that resulted in the arrests when he led about 200 demonstrators from the campaign's shantytown headquarters near Lincoln Memorial to the office of Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Wiley told the group Mills is responsible for a new welfare law Wiley called "one of the most vicious, racist laws in the history of the country."

The demonstrators intended to demand that Mills call hearings so they could testify for repeal of the law, which limits the number of dependent children eligible for welfare benefits.

At Mills' office they were met by police guarding a closed door. About half the demonstrators settled down in the halls to wait and the others remained on the sidewalk outside.

At the start of a round of freedom songs by the group outside, police informed Wiley it is against the law to sing or kneel on the Capitol grounds, and that anyone doing so would be arrested.

Rep. William F. Ryan, D-N.Y., and an unidentified Justice Department official also intervened with Powell. Ryan said he urged Powell to accept Jackson's promise and about any further arrests. Powell said and the group followed Jackson down the hall.

King's assassin may be dead man

POTTSVILLE, Pa. (AP) — State police and local officials said Thursday night they were investigating the possibility the body of a man found in a shallow grave near here was that of the alleged assassin of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Richard Russell, Schuylkill County district attorney, said state police have asked the FBI for dental records of the alleged slayer, 40-year-old James Earl Ray for positive identification.

Other methods of identifying the body have proved fruitless, he said, because of the advanced state of decomposition.

The body, containing four bullet wounds — with three bullets recovered — was found May 7 by two state forestry workers near Brandonville, approximately 20 miles north of this northeast Pennsylvania community.

A special report showed the decomposition was caused by lime which was placed on the body, Russell said.

The report, prepared by Dr. Wilton M. Krogman, a noted University of Pennsylvania anthropologist, indicated that if lime was used on the body "in-lament (was) not less than two weeks nor more than four."

State Police Detective George Durilla of Reading pointed out that the estimated time of burial meant that the body could conceivably be that of Ray since King was slain in Memphis, Tenn., on April 4 and Ray has since disappeared.

Machinists criticize UAW exit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The International Association of Machinists, which twice walked out of labor confederation in a 16 year quarrel, criticized the United Auto Workers Thursday for breaking with the AFL-CIO.

"We went through the revolving door and we found it to be a mistake," said P. L. Roy Smith, president of the Machinists, which finally returned to the fold of the AFL-CIO in 1956.

The machinists, the first fellow union to publicly criticize Walter Reuther's auto workers, said the new split weakens the labor movement.

The 1.5-million member auto workers union was suspended by AFL-CIO President George Meany last week for refusing to pay dues, and the machinists blamed Reuther's union for bringing on its own suspension.

Specter to arrest state senator

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Dist. Atty. Arlen Specter said Thursday a warrant has been issued for the arrest of State Sen. Henry J. Cianfrani Jr., 43, on charges of violating two sections of the Election Code.

Cianfrani is accused of illegally entering a polling place and causing a disturbance during the April 23rd primary elections here.

Gold prices still sliding

LONDON (AP) — The price of gold continued its slide Thursday as speculators stayed away from the market. Dealers foresaw a period of relative calm, barring some unforeseen new crisis.

Gold was fixed by London bullion dealers at an afternoon price of $11.40 an ounce, down $1.20 from Tuesday's peak. The highest reached since the London market reopened April 1.

European gold markets were closed for the Ascension Day holiday and the Paris market remained closed by strikes. But London dealers said that, even if they had been open, the trend probably would have been the same.

U.S. puts week's war dead at 549

SAIGON (AP) — A near record number of American troops were killed last week, reflecting the increased intensity of combat while peace talks drag on in Paris. U.S. officers reported Thursday. Plane losses over North Vietnam also are mounting.

Battles last week killed 549 U.S. troops, surpassed in the war only by the 562 Americans lost in combat the previous week, the American command said. Another 2,282 were wounded, 57 more than the week before.

In the air war, two more planes were shot down Wednesday over North Vietnam, bringing to 10 the number lost in May. Nine planes were lost in February, 11 in March and 16 in April.

The rising air losses were attributed to a combination of a larger number of missions over the North and an enemy build up of anti-aircraft weapons in the southern panhandle, now that the heartland of North Vietnam is off limits.

The heaviest combat in recent weeks had been borne by U.S. forces in two areas in the far north along the demilitarized zone between the Vietnams and as far as 100 miles to the south near Da Nang and around Saigon.

Associated Press correspondent John T. Wheeler reported from Da Nang, however, that the next big enemy drive may come in the central highlands.

Wheeler said 14,000 men and sources reported two regiments of the North Vietnamese 325th Division completed a 165-mile march south from near Khe Sanh in the far northwest to an area west of Kontum, in the highlands.

In addition, two other regiments normally operating around Da Nang disappeared after striking out to the southwest in the direction of Kontum.

The North Vietnamese also are constructing a road south of the A Shau Valley toward Kontum. This road was built from infiltration routes in Laos to connect with Route 14.

The North Vietnamese apparently consider this route important for they recently drove U.S. and South Vietnamese forces from Kham Duc, a Special Forces camp that checked on traffic on and around Route 14.

Kham Duc is 50 miles southwest of Da Nang and 30 miles north of Dak Puk, another Special Forces camp on the approaches to Kontum.

152 bombers have been battering targets around Kontum recently.

Jury sees Spock film

BOSTON (AP) — Dr. Benjamin Spock was shown in court-projected films Thursday standing on the steps of the Justice Department in Washington, urging a mass demonstration of young men to carry on their resistance to the draft.

"Remember!" he told them at the rally last Oct. 29, "the greatest weapon the government has is division and we must not attack each other, we must stick together."

Failure also possibility

PARIS (AP) — The American delegation now believes the Paris talks seeking a road to peace in Vietnam can go on for a long time, but U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman said Thursday the possibility of failure cannot be ruled out.

The chief U.S. negotiator made it clear he was not predicting failure, but was stating that talks such as these could not go on and on indefinitely as a propaganda exercise without getting down to substance.

But the outlook was discouraging for Americans. The meeting with the North Vietnamese seemed settling into the familiar and frustrating pattern of past negotiations of the West with the Communists.

"Thus the U.S. negotiators, Harriman and Cyrus R. Vance, face a laborious task in trying to get the meeting out of the area of appeals to world opinion and down to businesslike discussions."

"This sort of thing cannot go on forever," Harriman remarked to reporters as he left his hotel for the U.S. Embassy.

"The North Vietnamese are going to have to face up to the realities of the situation."

Then, in a second encounter with reporters later in the day, Harriman suggested that there was a chance of failure in Paris. His remark seemed to be aimed at countering the statement made Wednesday by Ngon Thuy, the chief North Vietnamese negotiator, that if the talks failed, the Americans would be responsible for the world.

"My own judgment," said Harriman, "is that we're here for a long time, that the other side feels they want to have talks, and certainly President Johnson has shown every indication of wanting to come to an agreement. But both sides have got to show some willingness to talk substance, willingness to move ahead. You can't keep talks going just as a propaganda medium. We have to move into a period of more productive results."

"The two sides have had four sessions, talked together 14 hours and made no progress."

Harriman thinks talks may drag on

The chief U.S. negotiator made it clear he was not predicting failure, but was stating that talks such as these could not go on and on indefinitely as a propaganda exercise without getting down to substance.

Hanoi's attitude is unchanged from April 3 when it accepted contact: the talks would be held simply "with a view to determining with the American side the unconditional cessation" of all acts of war against the North. To the Hanoi delegation, the talks here are only "official conversations."

U.S. talks with Communist North Korea occupied two years.

Shafer wants power to restore campus order

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Shafer said Thursday he favors any legislation that would permit a governor to restore order on college campuses.

The governor said he was not familiar with legislation introduced in the Senate on Wednesday, which would empower him to "take any necessary action" to "evict persons trespassing on state-owned or state-related college buildings."

But he told his regularly scheduled news conference, "I would certainly favor any legislation which would permit us to take action to restore order."

"I think it's time to let students and all persons know that the law isn't an optional thing. Disorders cannot be tolerated," Shafer said.

Commenting on national politics, Shafer said the Republican Party should not close the door on any potential presidential ticket, including one consisting of New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and California Gov. Ronald Reagan for vice president.

Nation's 3rd largest delegation

HHH, RFK seek support in state

HARRISBURG (AP) — Rival camps of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and New York Sen. Robert Kennedy set up shop in Harrisburg Thursday to bid for the political favors of the nation's third largest delegation to the Democratic national convention.

Both Humphrey and Kennedy brought in some of their major supporters to do their wooing among delegates who will cast Pennsylvania's 130 votes at the convention.

Attending from Monroe County are Stuart Pipher, county chairman; Atty. Samuel Newman and Harry Rider, state committee members; Mrs. Patricia Baechtold, county vice chairman, and James V. Cadue, former county chairman.

Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts flew in from Oregon to counter what appeared to be the start of a Humphrey blitz in Pennsylvania. Kennedy had been in the far Northwest helping his brother coral votes in next Tuesday's Oregon primary. Humphrey called on U. S. Sens. Fred Harris of Oklahoma and Walter Mondale of Minnesota, the co-chairmen of his United Democrats for Humphrey Committee, to do his speaking for him.

Both camps set up competing social receptions in the same downtown hotel hoping to curry favor for their respective candidates.

The vice president received a tremendous psychological — if not practical — boost Thursday with the formation of a Pennsylvania-for-Humphrey Committee headed by 40 of the state's more prominent Democrats.

While Democrats held the spotlight in Harrisburg, Republican Gov. Raymond P. Shafer indulged some political comment of his own at a regularly scheduled news conference. On being asked about a presidential ticket of New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and California Gov. Ronald Reagan for vice president, Shafer said:

"I have repeatedly said that I thought Gov. Rockefeller and Gov. Reagan were outstanding men. I don't think it would be wise to close the door on any ticket this year."

Coins valued at $100,000 are stolen

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — A coin collection valued at $100,000 by its owner has been stolen from a Lancaster warehouse, police reported Thursday.

Dr. Harry D. Troyen, head of urology at Reading Community General Hospital, told police he was the owner of a foot locker stored for the past two years at the Lancaster facility.

Troyen said the locker, taken in a burglary last week, contained sets of gold pieces and other coins. He said the locker also contained some paper money he regarded as priceless.

Charles I. Sheely, the warehouse operator, said he was unaware of what the locker contained. "If we had known what it was, we wouldn't have accepted it," he said Thursday.

Burglars broke through a door the night of May 16, ransacked some offices, and opened several cabinets, police said.

He declined, however, to speculate on whether he would win the entire delegation to his favorite-son candidacy. The governor said he talked personally to 20-to-25 delegates, adding, "I haven't heard anybody say they wouldn't support me but I have not sought a commitment."

On other matters: Teachers — Shafer said the four Republican conferees presented "several figures" to him Monday as a proposed compromise to the teacher salary dispute. He said, however, he had not agreed to any figure.

Confirmations — The governor said he has received no word from Senate Republicans that they will begin moving his major nominations as he requested last week. These include nominees to the Horse Racing Commission and the Turnpike Commission.

JP's back training course

HARRISBURG (AP) — Members of the minor judiciary should undergo a training course set up by the Department of Public Instruction, the president of the Allegheny County Squires and Constables Association said Thursday.

"A high school education also should be required," Charles J. Francis told the Pennsylvania Crime Commission.

The commission is holding hearings across the state to gather information for a central clearing house of information on crime in Pennsylvania. This information would be used by police departments and district attorneys, among others. The hearings also are delving into specific crime problem areas, with the Thursday session highlighting the minor judiciary.

Francis said it was not necessary for members of the minor judiciary to be lawyers. "You don't have to be learned in the law to know right from wrong," Francis said.

Another witness, Chief Magistrate John Patrick Walsh of Philadelphia, said that plainclothes vice squad policemen in that city must make two arrests a week.

Walsh said this quota system results in many arrests with insufficient evidence. These cases are dismissed by magistrates, who receive a bad image for doing so, he added.

ILGWU expected to back Humphrey

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The endorsement of Vice President Hubert Humphrey for the Democratic presidential nomination by the 450,000-member International Ladies' Garment Workers Union was expected to be a mere formality as the union opened its 33rd convention Thursday.

ILGWU President Louis Stulberg praised Humphrey as a man of "deep compassion" who understands the labor movement and "has widespread experience in both domestic and international affairs."

"In Humphrey are the qualities not only to unite the forward-looking political forces of America but also to unify our nation in these troubled days," Stulberg declared in his opening speech.

The union's general executive board urged Humphrey in April to declare his candidacy after President Johnson announced he would not seek re-election.

The convention delegates, representing 479 locals in the United States, Canada and Puerto Rico, will be addressed by the vice president Tuesday. A formal endorsement is expected to follow.

Stulberg repeatedly praised the Johnson-Humphrey administration for displaying "a deep concern for human life and values in world affairs as well as domestic matters." The union has long been a strong supporter of the Democratic party and Johnson.

Turning to union goals, Stul-berg said the ILGWU would continue its organizing efforts, especially among office workers, fight for improved wages, benefits and working conditions and progressive labor legislation.

This was Stulberg's first convention as president since David Dubinsky retired two years ago after leading the union.

Barrett Twp. receives ambulance

MOUNTAINHOME — A new ambulance has been purchased by the Barrett Township Volunteer Ambulance Corps which will now provide service with two units, both equipped for three patients, including oxygen equipment, Charles Ayers, president, announced.

The unit has 47 active crew members and seven registered nurses. One crew is made up of a driver, an assistant and a lady first aider or a registered nurse when required. These crews are set up on 12-hour shifts around the clock, on call for immediate service through the Stroudsburg-East Stroudsburg Control Center.

Red Cross trained crew members have advanced Red Cross First Aid training plus their own experience and training in ambulance procedure, which is conducted twice monthly along with the regular meeting.

ROSETO — Sandra T. DeLuca will be valedictorian and Carl J. Catino will be salutatorian of the Pius X High School graduation ceremonies June 7.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. David B. Thompson, J. C. L., vicar general and chancellor of the Allentown Diocese, will deliver the commencement address and present diplomas.

The graduation ceremonies will be in the Father Ducci Memorial auditorium.

Miss DeLuca is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl J. DeLuca of 243 N. Seventh St. Bangor.

Carl is the son of Mrs. Gilda Catino of 216 N. Ninth St. Bangor and John Catino, Bethlehem.

Miss DeLuca will enter East Stroudsburg State College in the fall and Carl will attend the University of Notre Dame.

The Baccalaureate mass will be celebrated June 6 in the Father Ducci auditorium. Father James G. Prior, principal, will celebrate the mass.

The Rev. Timothy D. Shanahan, a member of the Vincentian Fathers Mission Band in Germantown will preach. Father Shanahan will also conduct a Day of Recollection for the graduating class June 6.

Four arrested in Wayne Co. bike theft

MILFORD — Four Bronx, N.Y., residents were arrested Monday at 11:30 p.m. and charged with stealing a motorcycle from Bear's Motorcycle Shop in Honesdale. One of the quartet was a teenager.

State Police in Honesdale were alerted when they were told by a passing motorist, that four people were loading a motorcycle in a GMC truck.

Police notified Milford barracks and when the truck came through the area it was stopped.

Arrested were Argento Di-Pierrro, 22; Hector Torres, 18; and Mrs. Iva Di-Pierrro, 18. The name of the teenager arrested was not disclosed by police because of his age. He is 17 years old.

The quartet was placed in Pike County Jail in default of $1,500 bail, and Tuesday, transported to Honesdale for a hearing and are now in Wayne County Jail on a motor vehicle larceny charge.

Pocono Twp. planning to name roads

TANNERSVILLE — The Pocono Township Planning Commission presented a list of proposed names for all township roads to the supervisors during a meeting held Monday night.

Charles Kimmel, chairman of the planners, said that a year ago the Garden Club and the fire company gave a list of names for the roads to the supervisors which were then referred to the planners.

There are still some revisions that need to be made, Kimmel said. The names would not be all changed. The difference is where roads cross a state highway. The original name will be kept and modified with "east" or "west".

State regulations require that all township roads that intersect state highways must be properly named and identified.

Best ninth grade average

Four students honored at Bangor

BANGOR — Millard J. Gleim, principal of the Bangor Area Junior High School, has announced the students of the ninth grade who have been named as the honor or outstanding students of their class for the 1967-68 school year.

Due to the very close averages and other factors involved, four students were named this year instead of the usual two persons.

Named were Scott Beegle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Beegle of 328 South Main Street, Bangor. He has been a member of the honor society, the student council, drama and history clubs, and played football and basketball.

Candace Deen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Deen of Bangor R.D. 1. She has taken part in the honor society, school choruses and the drama clubs.

Nancy Beth Traves, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond A. Traves of 410 West High Street, Bangor. She is a member of the honor society, Tri-Hi-Y, student council and the newspaper staff.

Daniel Pinto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pinto of 235 North Seventh Street, Bangor. He is a member of the honor society, the school band, the dance band, student council, the science club, the drama club and the junior varsity baseball team.

Liquid fuel tax totals $50,000 in Pike Co.

Record Harrisburg Bureau HARRISBURG — State Auditor General Grace M. Sloan announced Thursday her department has approved an audit of the liquid fuels tax fund administered by the Commissioners of Pike County.

The county audit shows that during the calendar year 1967, a total $10,304 was received from the Liquid Fuels Tax Fund in the State Treasury in June and $13,035 in December.

In addition, a reimbursement from the State Treasury amounted to $83, for total receipts of $23,323 during 1967, which coupled with a January 1, 1967 balance of $27,487, gave the county fund a total of $50,910.

Plan field work Sunday

SAYLORSBURG — The Saylorsburg Playground Assn., during its regular meeting Tuesday night, made further plans for finishing the Little League ball field.

Final plans are also being made for a benefit supper to be held June 15 at the playground.

"We will have a man with a bulldozer and equipment at the playground this Sunday to work on the ball field. Anyone interested in helping is certainly invited to come out," Mrs. Kresge said.

United States standing firm

The United States appears to be making a firm stand on the battlefields of Paris, as Uncle Sam attempts to talk peace with North Vietnam.

But, right now the talks appear stalemated, with the Viet Cong trying desperately to make propaganda points rather than peace. In fact, Northern Vietnam has let it be known that it has little hope that the pre-peace talks conference will be successful.

If the situation wouldn't be so heart-breakingly serious, it would almost be humorous.

North Vietnam won't talk peace until the United States halts all bombing in Vietnam. Representatives of the Communist government just won't listen to anything but an answer to the bombing demand.

The North Vietnam representatives, from our vantage point, appear much like that famous ostrich that stuck its head in the sand while the remainder of the world rolled by.

North Vietnam can't see beyond its one demand and apparently feels the remainder of the world is just as near-sighted. While the demand for an end to the bombing echoes from the conference chambers, thousands of Viet Cong and allied forces move from North Vietnam into South Vietnam—apparently under a cloak of secrecy.

Yet, the entire world knows what is happening. An end to the bombing by Uncle Sam would open an entire avenue of approach for North Vietnam forces to the south.

Once again, the United States is being blamed for prolonging the fighting, while the truth of the matter is that Uncle Sam is going as far as he dare go to bring peace to the world.

Any weakening on this issue could actually prolong the war and bring added conflict and heartache to the world.

Once again it is up to the United States to rescue the globe.

Camping week

It has been a cool and wet spring and camping hasn't been a thought uppermost in most people's mind to date. But, they soon will be coursing through the gray matter.

The time has arrived for a thorough check of the trailer, tent, mosquito netting, stove and all the trimmings that go with a successful summer camping venture.

In fact, there is exactly one month remaining before the summer camping season is upon us.

Gov. Raymond P. Shafer has proclaimed June 24 through June 30 as Pennsylvania Camping Week.

The National Campers and Hikers Assn. will actually kickoff the tenting campaign with a state campout at Center Hall on June 14, 15 and 16. This campout will feature two chapters of the association located in Monroe County.

The Commonwealth annually enlarges its assistance to campers through a program of publicity, guidance and well developed camping areas.

A set of rules and regulations for private camp grounds, which will reportedly be rigidly supported by the state, have been adopted.

However, once again it is the individual camper who controls the success of a summer's fun. It is the cooperative camper who makes the pastime worthwhile and inviting, to both residents of Pennsylvania and visitors to the Keystone State.

Cleanliness and thoughtfulness for the fellow camper are the chief guidelines for successful vacations and journeys into the woodlands.

She: You're the last man I expect to marry!
He: How many are ahead of me?

By the time a man gets to greener pastures he can't climb the fence, and by the time he gets old enough really to know what's cooking, he's lost his appetite.

Husband answering the telephone: "She's not home, Mrs. Smith. Would you like to leave a rumor?"

Television is very educational. My nephew has learned three ways to mug a woman, four ways to avoid leaving fingerprints, and five ways to ambush a cop.

"What's with you, man?" one said. "If we don't make this record, how are we going to buy our bread?"

"Sorry about that," he replied, "but I had a hangup at home."

"What's happened?"

"My little boy loosened one of my guitar strings and it got out of tune."

"What took so long about that?"

"HE WOULDN'T TELL ME WHICH ONE."

The Allen-Scott Report

Fear stalking capital

Paul Scott

WASHINGTON — Fear and terror are stalking the capital of the mightiest nation in the world.

That is the grim pronouncement of the chairman of the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee in charge of the District of Columbia's annual budget of more than $500 million. With characteristic bluntness, Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W. Va., told his colleagues:

"There is no point in kidding ourselves. One fools only himself if he attempts to believe that this city is not gripped in fear. It is time to quit temporizing with criminals. We need action, not words, from Mayor Washington and from the White House to prove that the reign of terror will be brought to a halt by whatever means are necessary."

Calling for troops

For several weeks, Byrd has been vigorously urging that troops be returned to Washington to avert a repetition of the destructive violence that followed the murder of Dr. Martin Luther King. Byrd has argued troops are necessary because of the massing of the so-called "poor people's march."

He cited the virtually daily incendiary fires now running into the hundreds, the repeated slaying of businessmen, numerous rapes and the scores of robberies of bus drivers, culminating with the slaying of one by a gang of Negro juveniles.

"I heard the president at the White House several months ago," declared Byrd, "in speaking with reference to crime in this city, address himself to those who are responsible for enforcing the law. He told them in effect that if they did not get busy and reverse this trend, the fur would fly. I have not yet seen any fur fly, and I have not seen the crime trend reversed in Washington."

Potential danger

Making no bones that he deems the so-called "poor people's" encampment as a potential danger, Byrd flatly stated, "I would not advise any students to come here while this 'campaign' is in progress, or while crime continues at the pace it does now."

"One needs only to look daily at the visitors' galleries in this chamber," he continued, "to see that the students are not here. Last year or the year before, it was difficult to move through the halls or to get on elevators because of the great masses of people visiting the Capitol from all over the nation — students, tourists and others. At times they stood in long lines waiting to get into the galleries."

"But look at the galleries today. Often they are only half or one-third full. There are no people standing in line, and the reason is very obvious. People are fearful of coming to Washington."

The courts, and particularly the Supreme Court, were singled out by Senator Byrd as "greatly responsible for the spiraling crime rate." He held that while there is endless talk and reports about crime and criminals, "No word is ever said about how the federal courts are greatly responsible for the spiraling crime rate."

"If we really want to strike at the roots of crime in our country," declared Byrd, "we should start with the Supreme Court. In making appointments to that court, they should be men who will not temporize with criminals. Yes, accord the criminal his constitutional rights; but let us not forget about the rights of innocent victims."

"Let us point the finger where we should. I say to the president of the United States, whoever he is or may be, 'Look at your Supreme Court. Look at your appointees. If you really want to do something about crime, start here.'"

It is known that Byrd is making a thorough study of the handling of crime and other critical problems in Washington, and will report his findings in detail to the full Senate. No member of that chamber is more comprehensively informed on Washington affairs than he is, nor more forthright in expressing his views and advocating forceful remedial measures.

Women in races

WASHINGTON — We took time off recently from advising the president to interview a woman driver. Even the finely-tuned mind of a master columnist occasionally needs respite from the complexities of life.

It came in the form (36-24-36) of Liane Engeman, who passed through Washington on the way back to her native Holland after competing against men in a Sebring, Fla., automobile race. At least one of the male drivers was not thrilled about having her on the same track.

"I was coming around a turn, going fine," Paul Hawkins is quoted as saying in a Miami newspaper, "when all of a sudden these girls in a Javelin bump the Porsche in front of them. I geared down, but still hit the Porsche."

Although other male drivers don't agree with him, he claims the accident crippled his car. "Letting girls in a race is dangerous!" he said. "I had one girl, believe this now, pass me on the infield grass one time!"

Poor showing

Miss Engeman told us Hawkins is just a bad sport and had to blame somebody for his poor showing. She said male racing drivers will have to get used to competing with women, just as the male motorist became accustomed to women drivers on the highways.

"Women can't compete in sports such as football, certainly," she said, "so the male ego is safe there. But we can and will compete in sports such as auto racing, which require nerve and skill rather than burliness. I wasn't chosen for Ring-Free Oil's racing team for my looks, you know."

Perhaps not, but I should say the executives of Ye Olde Ring-Free weren't exactly blind to her physical attributes. Miss Engeman's father is a taxi driver in Holland and he taught her to drive. For anyone who has ridden a cab in Europe, this might explain her daredevil talents.

"I went into racing because it is ever so much more exciting than street driving," she said.

In Liane's case this may be so, although I must say I find the average woman's street driving fairly exciting. My wife, for instance, can talk and check her make-up in the rear-view mirror while driving 55 mph through an alley. My knuckles are still white from the time she made a U-turn in heavy traffic on the Lincoln Memorial Bridge.

We have a girl reporter in the office who drives a sports car and complains that it burns a lot of gas. Possibly this is because she pulls out the choke knob to have something on which to hang her pocketbook. But don't get me wrong. I love women drivers.

The next time television passes out its acting awards, it ought to give one to the writers it has inspired.

If the Defense Department doesn't soon develop some planes that can really fly, we may have to stop the bombing whether we want to or not.

Do you realize that if Neville Chamberlain were alive today, he probably would be hailed as a genius?

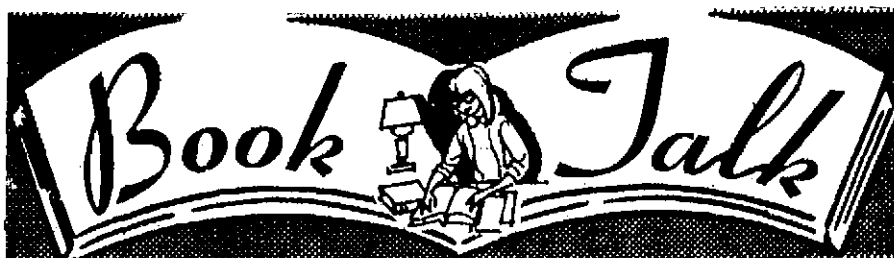

Sen. Eugene McCarthy says he's going all the way to the convention. So am I, and I have about as much chance as he does of being nominated.

Maybe RFK isn't ruthless, but somebody must be responsible for those buttons that say, "Vote for Bobby — Or else!"

Depths of being

THE SWAN IN THE EVENING, by Rosamond Lehmann (Harcourt, Brace & World $4.50).

In this autobiographical account the author explores the depths of her own being, as she has so successfully before explored the characters of her novels.

The impelling force behind this exposition was the death of her daughter who had been very close to her. Despair drove Miss Lehmann to an examination of many aspects of life and death that have been troubling humanity since time immemorial.

With clear and honest appraisal she traces the growth of a personal conviction that death is not the end of a personality. That she reached this conclusion independently of traditional theology adds to the interest of this account of a voyage from despair to hope.

Irving M. Peck

Georgia entrancing

HERE LIES GEORGIA LINZ, by Paula Mason (World $4.95).

"I've cut my wrist. . . You must come at once," the ultra-actress pleaded with a doctor whose name she picked out of the phone book.

The bizarre life of Georgia (nee Sophie) Linz is enough to make almost anyone slice one's "wrist — not wrists" 34 times. She has missed nothing whether incest, rape, abortion, fratricide, rags to sudden super-stardom.

The story is as entrancing, though contrived, as are the characters. Georgia, "pale, exquisite ghost of manufactured dreams" was the wife of Rudi Linz, world's most famous actor-director who was "rotten like carrion." She was also the lover of Simon, her brother, who served a prison sentence for raping her. Their dialogue is at times vivid, at times dramatically exciting.

Georgia's adventures are revealed through a series of flashbacks which are artfully and powerfully enmeshed with her sessions with a psychoanalyst.

Perhaps more interesting than the sensational story line is the analytic aspect. The author, whose husband is a psychoanalyst, studied to become one. Paula Mason takes the reader into the analyst's consulting room in an attempt to "bridge the vast gulf between practicing psychoanalysts and the general public."

The book could be termed a psychological soap opera, but it must be called a fascinating one.

Marsha Dubrow

Odd blend of nonsense

ROSY IS MY RELATIVE, by Gerald Durrell. (Viking $4.95).

In this quaint, fey novel the humor seems to be a bit of P. G. Wodehouse crossed with Lewis Carroll, plus a little of the British film antics of recent years. It's an odd blend of nonsense, with a flavor all its own.

The period is 1900. Our hero is Adrian Rook-whistle, a 30-year-old English clerk whose life has been very dull until he inherits from a renegade uncle, late of the circus, an elephant named Rosy, whose weakness is whatever alcoholic beverages happen to be handy.

Overwhelmed by his new responsibility, Adrian sets off across the countryside in the hope of finding a circus that will take Rosy off his hands. The sight of Rosy breaks up a foxhunt (shambles No. 1). Then Adrian and his critter are recruited by Lord Fenneltree as the surprise element in a party at his estate (drunken Rosy makes this shambles No. 2).

Adrian is injured, and recovers at an inn operated by Peregrine Filigree, an ardent believer in reincarnation, and his charming daughter Samantha. Then comes a chance engagement in a theatrical performance at a summer resort (drunken Rosy makes this shambles No. 3).

The fanciest fun comes when Adrian and Rosy are defended in court by a dwarfish lawyer named Sir Magnus Ramping Pomfroy.

Durrell, an accomplished naturalist and writer of books about animals, has laid it on rather thick in his first novel, overdoing the slapstick a bit. But particularly in the trial sequence, he juggles a splendid bit of reverse logic and nonsense.

You may be baffled by this novel, but the odds are that you will find delight in its offbeat, exotic and zany commotions.

Miles A. Smith

Combat recollection

SARDINIAN BRIGADE, by Emilio Lussu (Ginger-Stackpole $5.95).

This tale might reasonably have competed with Hemingway's "A Farewell To Arms" as a source for American information about the Italian front in World War I if it were not for the fact that Lussu's book was not published until 1939, when another world war held the scene.

Lussu distinguished himself as a front line officer in the Italian fighting of 1914-1919, in which Hemingway served briefly as an ambulance driver. The Italian author's book is a recollection of combat experience in the mountains above Venice in 1915-1917.

In Italy as elsewhere, the first war was a chronicle of futile attacks, and counterattacks, usually between trench lines as little as 50 yards apart.

Lussu illuminates his account of warfare with episodes of tragedy, comedy and irony.

Like front-line troops everywhere, the men the author served with were beset by the whims of the high command.

Lussu sometimes felt it his duty to intervene, as for example when he knew a soldier was preparing to shoot an unpopular general, but it is clear that his sympathies were on the side of the troops.

In the 20s and 30s, Lussu was an active anti-Fascist — his book was written in exile — and he has been active in Italian Socialist politics since World War II).

"Sardinian Brigade" casts an interesting light on an area of activity which was as much the "forgotten front" in World War I as in World War II — except for the great German breakout at Caporetto, which is not touched on in Lussu's book.

Day of pilgrimages

The United States has several Memorial Days. One will be celebrated next Thursday. Flags will be raised, speeches will be intoned, and millions of people will make sorrowful pilgrimages to cemeteries.

This is the 100th anniversary of the original Memorial Day. It was the notion of General John A. Logan of the Grand Army of the Republic to set aside May 30, 1868, "for the purpose of strewing with flowers or otherwise decorating the graves of comrades who died in defense of their country during the late rebellion." He said he hoped that the idea "will be kept up from year to year."

Logan, of course, was a Union general and his notion alienated the South. The Commonwealth of Virginia accepted the date, but called it "Confederate Memorial Day." The states of Louisiana, Tennessee and Arkansas selected June 3, the birthday of Jefferson Davis, father of the Confederacy, as their Memorial Day. Georgia, Mississippi, Alabama and Florida made April 26 their day of solemn recollection.

Lack of agreement

North Carolina and South Carolina picked May 10. It becomes apparent that we cannot agree on a day of grief. Still, the idea of having such a day spread until now it embraces more than our war dead — people everywhere decorate graves on Memorial Day. Entire families adjourn to cemeteries after early dinner.

Headstones are studied with their grim statistics of birth and death. The grave will be mulched by someone who remembered to bring a toy shovel or a trowel. Bitter opinions will be expressed about "perpetual care." Stiff and rusty bouquets from other days will be lifted in their wire frames and carried to a trash heap.

Geraniums in little brick pots will be planted. Sprays of gay flowers will be laid tenderly on graves. People with sprinkling cans will find water. Somewhere upwind, the faint sad notes of taps will be heard.

The elders will stand, worn hands clasped, to murmur a prayer. They may stare with fascination at the grave because, in their muteness, they know that soon, all too soon, their time will come. At best it is a day for flagellating love.

Those who are honored are not aware of it. The souls are not among the stones. If they are, everything we have been taught about the spirit of God and man is wrong. The dead, fortunately, are deprived of the one sentiment that afflicts the living — memory. One who does not remember cannot regret.

It is unfortunate that this country requires a special day on which to honor its dead. It is doubly sad that the best we can do is to visit a cemetery and stand in silence over ashes. If the dead could speak, isn't it possible that they might say: "Go to a temple in my name. What are you doing here?"

Behind the beachhead at Anzio, in Italy, you will find an enormous field, with white crosses. You will find another at two Jima, where the gallant young men of the Third, Fourth and Fifth Marine Divisions are buried. The Punch Bowl, inside an extinct volcano at Oahu, is full of small bronze plates in long steady rows.

In France, the American dead of World War I crowd the graves of their WW II sons. America exports white crosses all over the world. Who will visit these — the most worthy of them all? A few officers, a color guard? I visited a cousin, Joe McCarthy, at a grave in Wiener Neustadt, Austria. He wasn't there any more. An official said: "They have all been moved to Munich."

On reflection, it isn't important. After all, death is the cross of the living. It is for those who are warm and vibrant to suffer. My mother and my first wife are two rows apart in New Jersey. I haven't been there in years, because it was useless, futile and heart-wrenching.

After 10 minutes of standing and looking and remembering, I always left wondering why I tortured myself. And yet, I never permit a day to go by without remembering them.

Women's Wear Daily reports Goldie Hawkins (whose "Goldie's New York" is the New Yorkiest night club in town) opens his Bull's Head Inn at East Hampton Memorial Day weekend (starting May 29). The Hamptons' inn-crowd gets a preview the weekend before.

When Miriam Makeba and Stokely Carmichael signed their Washington, D.C., wedding license they answered the question of color by writing in "Beautiful Black." Rod Steiger in "21" in Nehru duds and beads and Sinatra on the Emmy awards in turtleneck and jeweled pendant were good honest arguments against that sort of gear for the male middle-aged. Certainly that Emmy awards show won't win an Emmy.

Jackie Robinson's 18-year-old daughter Sharon and her U. of Arizona school-mate Curtiss Brown were wed; her groom starts Army service next fall. Lou Gehrig and Babe Ruth weren't good friends but their widows now are. The scandal that once rocked the motorcycle cops is due for a rerun any subpoena.

At La Strada East, Joe E. Lewis told owner Joe De Rose he was invited to the Antiques Show at the Garden, "As an exhibit." Joe's certainly been aged in the mahogany long enough to qualify. Film star Robert Taylor is buying a television station at Pocatello, Idaho. Omar Sharif's doctors advised an ulcer operation but Omar folded his tensions and silently crept away

20 years of no bridge

It doesn't seem possible but our Thursday Night Jolly Girls Bridge Club has been going for nearly 20 years now. We started the thing right after college when our members were getting married and having babies and couldn't afford analysis.

One of the cardinal rules was that we absolutely would not talk about children. No one was to discuss their kids. After all, the purpose of the get-together was to relax and get away from it all.

The first five minutes we usually sit around and look casually at one another's stomachs and wonder who is pregnant. If no one volunteers an announcement, we remain alert during refreshments to see who refuses coffee and who bolts from the room when the buttered toast surprise, topped with peanut butter and whipped cream, is served.

We touch briefly on the female disorders of our friends. "Speaking of female disorders," says Blanche, "has anyone been able to figure out the new math?" This launches us into a discussion on schools, field trips, car pools, and what to do with baby food jars. (Throw 'em away.)

Car on trip
Around 9:15, Ethel always gets a call from her home. Either her little Karl has released the emergency brake and their car is on its way to the shopping center without a driver, the baby is running around outside in the dark without the benefit of underwear, or her baby sitter is burning her library card as she wants to protest and this is the only way she knows how.

"Speaking of the draft," said Blanche, "do any of you know what to do with a child who goes into the bathroom and stares at his navel for three hours?" This launches us on a discussion of measles, children who leave Daddy's garage tools in the sandbox, tight pants, toilet training, and Captain Kangaroo.

Glasses for strain
By 10 p.m., Helen will whip out her glasses and squint through them to see who is in the room. She always says, "I don't really need these. It's only to prevent strain." (Helen has often been known to deal out a deck of her credit cards and announce she will play the hand alone.)

"Speaking of strain," interjects Blanche, "did anyone read the story about colleges teaching children how to drink? This sets us off on a woman who refused to drink until her children were in bed. By last check she was taking them out of school right after recess to bed them down. Also, what to do with children who bite other children and how to make an Alexander using left-overs in the bar.

It's 11 p.m. before the hostess announces she had found the cards... behind the refrigerator... pasted back to back... with the queens missing... and the jacks made into paper dolls with stands. That is all right with me. The truth of the matter is I don't even play bridge. Haven't in 20 years. I just go to get away from the kids. It does you a world of good.

Area cows set records

EAST STROUDSBURG — A report of milk production levels attained by dairy cows in area herds received from the Holstein Friesian Association showed three records set by cows owned by John and Helen Farrington, East Stroudsburg.

AGB Robin Joy, a nine year old, produced 22,630 pounds of milk, and 896 pounds of butterfat in 385 days; Shawval Fancy Queen Edith, a four year old, had 23,080 pounds milk and 794 pounds fat in 305 days, and Shawval Skyliner Roxanne, a four-year-old, had 16,160 pounds milk and 630 pounds fat in 305 days.

No ancient action

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — The trappings of the 20th century are taking hold in this ancient Arab country. The Higher Court of Appeal found two women guilty of breaking into a house and stealing a tape recorder and television set. They made their getaway by motor car.

Reunion 50 years after first battle

EAST STROUDSBURG — Fifty years ago, July 14, 1918, the men of Company G, 109th Infantry of the United States Army which was the county's company, had their baptism of fire and came through it with honors.

This year they are planning a reunion in Stroudsburg, now in the planning stage, for that date.

Chester Mertens of East Stroudsburg, who is spearheading the reunion, is attempting to contact all the men of Company G who were at Conde-En Brie on that fateful day.

It was Bastille Day in France, and the French troops in the front lines were celebrating in typical French fashion, he recalled.

"The Germans realized the condition of the first line troops and, knowing they were backed by green troops fresh from the United States, they struck and struck hard," he said.

"When the French gave way, the Americans took over and much to the Germans' surprise green troops stopped them cold and forced them back. It was really the beginning of the end, because from that date American troops continued to force them back and they were unable to regroup in enough force to stop the doughboys."

There will be members of that company coming from Scranton as well as from Philadelphia, whose contingent was joined with the group from Scranton.

Mertens is asking any of the local men who have not yet been contacted to get in touch with him by phone. His home is at 75 Ridgeway St., East Stroudsburg.

First president resumes office after 22 years

SHAWNEE-ON-DELAWARE — The Ladies Auxiliary of the Shawnee Fire Co. celebrated its 22nd birthday with a dinner party at the Beaver House and by again electing the woman who served as its first president.

Dixie Wilson, president for the past two years, turned over the office to the newly elected president, Mrs. Lawton S. Clapper.

In her 22 years of service, Mrs. Clapper has missed less than five of the monthly meetings. There was a period of ten years when she missed only one meeting.

Other elected officers are Mrs. Richard A. Primrose, vice president; Mrs. Harry Goldsmith, recording secretary; Mrs. James J. Flanagan, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Barry J. Tretloway, treasurer.

A gift of $1,000 was made to the Fire Company. The money had been raised during the past year as the result of several fund raising events. The most productive project was the sale of fruit cakes which the auxiliary has sold for the last four years and which they plan to continue to sell each Fall.

There were 27 present for the dinner meeting.

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

Although the possibilities are getting increasingly more rare, it always makes me feel young when somebody can remember something further back than I can.

For instance I don't remember the Battle of Conde en Brie on July 14, 1918, which the surviving members of Company G will be celebrating this year.

However, I do remember when soldiers were called "Doughboys" and know the words of "Over There" and "K-k-Katie" and "There's a Long, Long Trail A-Winding."

That was the last "singing" war to any great extent, and any songs to come out of the Korean or Vietnam wars seem to be of the protest variety. And it was also probably the last war when men from any single geographical location will all be in the same battle.

A computerized war is undoubtedly more efficient and spreads the burden of casualties over the whole country, but it isn't apt to lead to reunion of men living in the same locality who shared common experiences on a common battlefield.

And after 50 years, the hardships and the horrors of war have probably faded while the sense of camaraderie and youthful escapades have grown stronger.

Of course, this is pure speculation on my part. The nearest I could come to a battle reunion would be a reunion of the Girl Scouts of the Invasion of Camp Miller at Camp Deerpark of 1925 or the Interborough Battle of the Bridge when the Stroudsburg-East Stroudsburg basketball games were played at the Armory.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By B. Jay Becker

TEST YOUR PLAY
1. You are declarer with the West hand at Six Clubs. North leads the king of hearts. How would you play the hand?

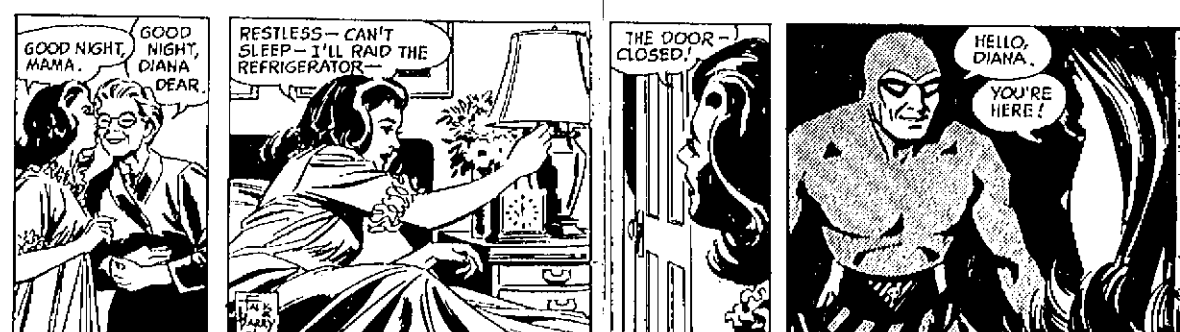

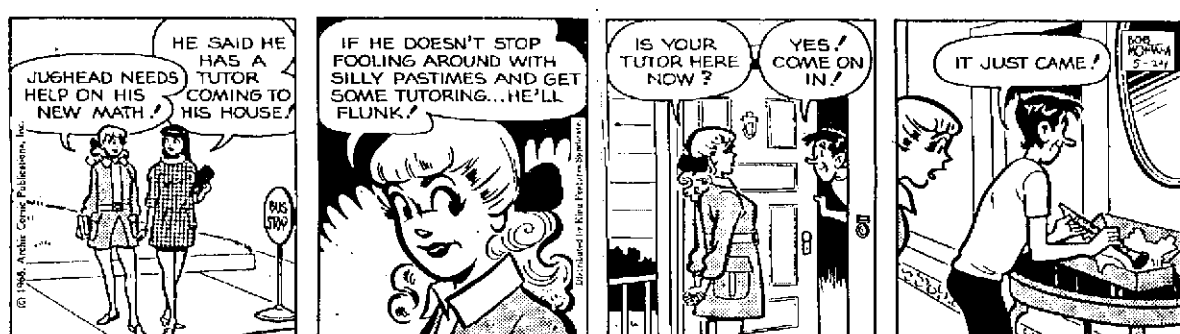

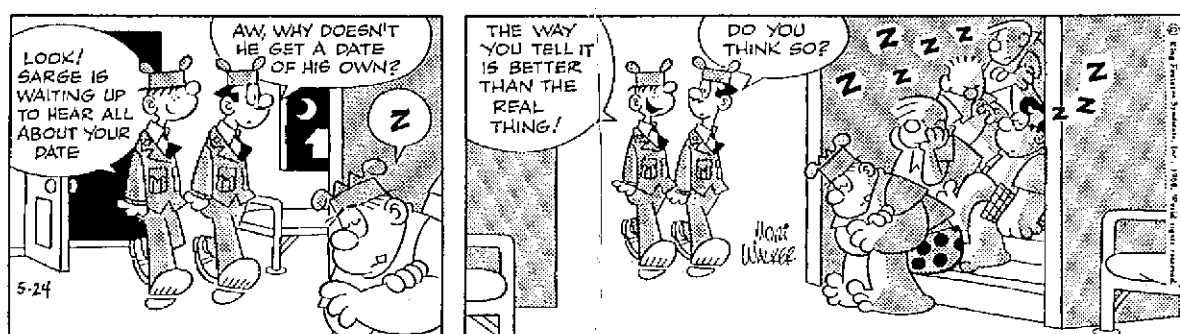

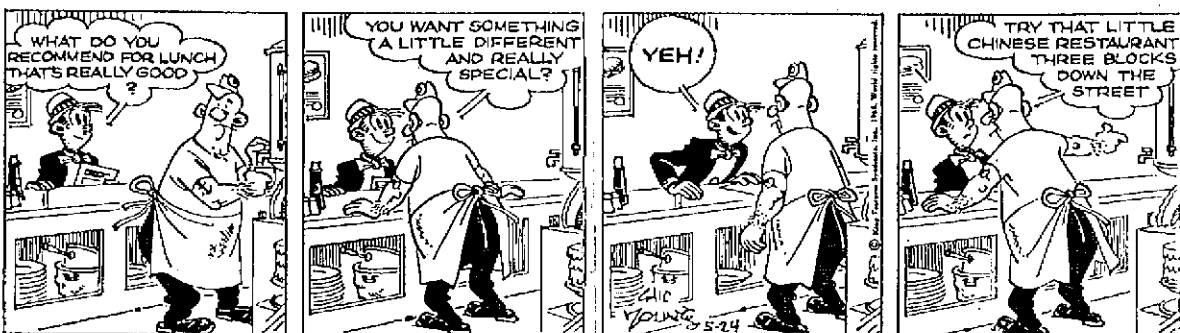

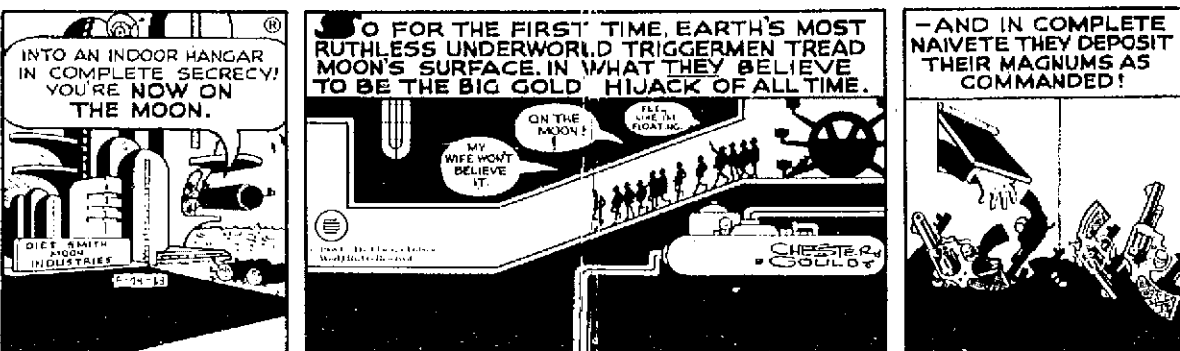

AKB4

2. You are declarer with the West hand at Three Notrump. North leads the king of diamonds on which South discards the two of spades. How would you go about trying to make the contract, assuming best defense?

AKQ4
J10886
AKQ4

1. Ruff the heart and return a low diamond, finessing the queen.
If the queen loses to the king, your only chance to make the contract is to find South with specifically the doubleton king of clubs. Whatever South returns, take a trump finesse as soon as possible and hope for the best.
If you win the diamond finesse at trick two, play a low club to the ace at trick three. If the jack or king appears, making six becomes automatic; all you lose is a trump trick. If both opponents follow low on the trump lead to the ace, return to dummy with a spade and lead the ten of clubs. If South follows suit, you are home.

After winning the diamond finesse, it is far better to lead a club to the ace than to take a trump finesse. The finesse is avoided to guard against the possibility of North's having been dealt the singleton king. With a small slam at stake, the safety play to protect against this possibility is clearly best.
2. You can make sure of the contract by playing the eight of diamonds on the king. If North shifts to another suit, you obtain an entry to dummy that guarantees you at least nine tricks.
Let's therefore assume that North continues diamonds, cashing the A-Q. On these you follow with the nine and ten. North still can't lead any other suit or you make four notrump, so he must now lead the seven of diamonds. When you play the six on it, North is at the end of his rope. Whatever he plays, you make the rest of the tricks.
Note that if you play the six of diamonds on the ace, king or queen, you may go down. You cannot be sure of more than eight tricks.
The hand was composed by George Coffin, who specializes in constructing interesting deals that cannot be defeated regardless of how the opposing cards are distributed. But, of course, you must play them right.

Skytop girl to be 'capped'

EASTON — Capping exercises for the 29 members of the Class of 1970 at Easton Hospital School of Nursing will be held today in Easton Area High School.

The chief speaker will be State Sen. Jeanette F. Reibman, whose topic will be, "Up the Down Staircase."

Sen. Reibman also serves as a member of the advisory committee on teacher education for the State Council of Education and on the advisory committee of the Greater Lehigh Valley Hospital and Health Planning Council.

Second occasion
For the second time in the nursing school's 61-year history, four male students are members of the freshman class. At today's ceremony they will receive pocket emblems instead of the traditional cap from Miss Virginia M. Mellroy, R.N., director of the school. The first men were admitted to the school in the fall of 1965 as members of the Class of 1969.

Students to be capped are:

Linda Diaz, George Forrest, Catharine Grifo, Becky Habrial, Beverly Little, Donna Milburn, Amy Miller, Rosanne Roccaro, Robert Rowlands, and Donna Wannamaker, all of Easton; Patricia Ketter, Allentown; Daria Maushart, Bethlehem.

Also, Rebecca Black, Skytop; Angelina Buffone, Berwick; Janet Calkin, Valley Stream, N.Y.; Winona Cramer, Oxford, N.J.; Lucille Getz, Lehighton; Susan Jamolkowski, Pen Argyl; Daniel Little, Newton, N.J.; Diane Logie, Bridgeport; Lynne MacNair, Gwynedd Valley; Georgia McCarthy, Bernardsville, N.J.; Thomas Adams and Marsha Moyer, Doylestown; Patricia Parsons, Palmerton; Kathy Zipp, Lancaster; and Diane DeMichael, Nesquehoning; Nancy Wasilko, Lansford; Victoria Paulini, Wind Gap.

Miss Black is the daughter of John S. Black and a graduate of Pocono Mountain High.

Allyn McElwain, an upper classman, will take part in the program. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin McElwain, 134 Ridgeway St., East Stroudsburg.

Taking part in the capping exercises will be Mrs. Mildred M. Stuebe, R.N., director of nursing.

Rebecca Black of Skytop, member of the Class of 1970 at Easton Hospital School of Nursing, is congratulated by the hospital administrator, H. D. Hamilton, before the capping exercises for first-year students.

Area firm entering new field

READING — The appointment of Pocono Mountain Land Abstract Co., Stroudsburg, as its agency in Monroe, Pike and Wayne counties was announced by the Berks Title Insurance Co.

Specializing in the issuance of insurance covering land and real estate titles, Berks Title Insurance Co. is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Reading-based American Bank and Trust Co. of Pennsylvania, and is the state's 12th largest bank.

Pocono Mountain Land Abstract Co. is a subsidiary of Monroe Street Co., a corporation headed by three Stroudsburg attorneys, Russell L. Mervine, president; Lester T. Brown, treasurer, and Samuel W. Newman, secretary. The company has offices at 713 Monroe St., Stroudsburg.

"We have entered into the field of issuing title insurance to enable us to offer this service to members of the Monroe County bar and to the public in general, who will now be able to obtain title insurance locally and to avoid the usual delay involved when such coverage is purchased out of town," Mervine said.

In addition to its Pennsylvania operations, Berks Title Insurance Co. has branches and agencies in Delaware, Florida, Maryland, New Jersey, North Carolina, Ohio, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia.

School aid bill session

HARRISBURG (AP) — Representatives of the State Administration and proponents of state aid for nonpublic schools plan to meet Monday in an attempt to resolve their differences over a $27 million aid bill.

The measure, passed by the House and sent to the Senate nearly two weeks ago, would create a special authority to purchase educational services from private and parochial schools.

Publisher of Record API board chairman

NEW YORK — The election of James H. Ottaway as chairman of the Advisory Board of the American Press Institute at Columbia University was announced Thursday by Dr. Grayson Kirk, president of the university.

Ottaway, chairman of the board of Ottaway Newspapers-Radio, Inc., Campbell Hall, N. Y., succeeds Barry Bingham, editor and publisher of The Courier-Journal and The Louisville Times, Louisville, Ky. Bingham, who remains a member of the board, had asked to be relieved of the chairmanship, which he had held since 1953.

James H. Ottaway

In other action at its recent annual meeting, the advisory board re-named four members for three-year terms. In addition to Ottaway, they are Turner Catledge, executive editor of The New York Times; John E. Motz, president and publisher, The Kitchener Waterloo Record, Ontario, Canada; and Joseph Pulitzer Jr., editor and publisher, St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Board membership
Other board members are: Frank R. Ahlgren, editor, The Commercial Appeal, Memphis, Tenn.; Otis Chandler, publisher, Los Angeles Times; J. Montgomery Curtis, vice president-development, Knight Newspapers, Inc., Miami, Fla.; John P. Harris, chairman of the board, John P. Harris Newspapers, Hutchinson, Kansas; Jack B. Kueper, managing editor, The Dallas Morning News; Edward Lindsay, vice president of planning, Lindsay-Schaub Newspapers, Decatur, Ill.

Also, Newbold Noyes Jr., editor, The Evening Star-The Sunday Star, Washington, D.C.; Eugene S. Pulliam, assistant publisher, The Indianapolis Star and The Indianapolis News; Ben Reese, former managing editor, St. Louis Post-Dispatch; James E. Sauter, vice president, operations, Booth Newspapers, Detroit, Mich.; and Fred W. Stein, editor and publisher, The Binghamton Press, Binghamton, N. Y.

The board re-elected Reese to serve as co-chairman with Ottaway for a term of one year. Ottaway appointed Catledge and Reese to serve with him as the board's executive committee.

Ottaway heads a group of eight newspapers, three radio stations and several other enterprises. A member of the API Advisory Board since 1959, he has long been one of the institute's staunchest supporters. He has personally been a member of two API

Seminars and has sent a total of 98 members of his organization as participants.

He is a graduate of Rollins College, Winter Park, Fla., and holds an honorary degree of doctor of letters from Hartwick College, Oneonta, N. Y. He is a former president of the New York State Publishers Association.

Launches career

Ottaway began his newspaper career at the Port Huron (Mich.) Times-Herald. Under his father's guidance, he was given complete training in all phases of the business. After graduation from college, he served as national advertising manager, then classified advertising manager. He also served as an officer and a director of the Times-Herald Company in Port Huron, Michigan.

In November, 1936, Mr. and Mrs. Ottaway purchased The Excelsior (N.Y.) Bulletin, a semi-weekly newspaper, which was converted into a daily in November, 1937. The Excelsior Bulletin was sold in 1960. The Ottaway group has been expanded since 1944 to include the Oneonta (N.Y.) Star, Stroudsburg Record, Plattsburgh (N.Y.) Press-Republican, Danbury (Conn.) News-Times, Middletown (N.Y.) Times Herald Record and Port Jervis (N.Y.) Union Gazette, New Bedford (Mass.) Standard-Times and Cape Cod Standard-Times, Hyannis, Mass.

Since 1946, when the American Press Institute was established, 5,581 newspaper men and women have attended its 212 seminars at Columbia University. The participants represented 783 newspapers in the 50 states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and nine provinces of Canada.

Wally G. Butz

Butz to leave P.V. post

STROUDSBURG — Wally Butz, Pleasant Valley High School principal, will leave education for a partnership in the Walter H. Dreher Realty Agency, Stroudsburg.

"I'm changing an avocation into a vocation," Butz said, referring to his association with Dreher on a part-time basis since 1958, when he began selling real estate.

With Dreher he will be involved with real estate and insurance sales and service.

The Pleasant Valley Board of Education accepted Butz's resignation at an unpublicized meeting last week.

No replacement has been named to succeed Butz who received $11,375 annually. Butz's resignation becomes effective at the end of the current school term.

A 1951 graduate of Pennsylvania State University, Butz earned his master's degree in education at Lehigh University in 1962 and has done advanced work at Lehigh, Penn State, the University of Delaware and East Stroudsburg State College.

Before becoming principal, he taught biology and vocational agriculture at Pleasant Valley. He had taught U.S. History, citizenship, science and industrial arts at Chestnut Hill Township High School before the school became a part of the Pleasant Valley district.

Scotrun man serious after auto accident

STROUDSBURG — Clair W. Peechatka, 63, of Scotrun, is in guarded condition in the intensive care unit at the General Hospital of Monroe County after suffering chest injuries and a fractured jaw from a car accident.

Peechatka was traveling north on Legislative Route 46009 in Hamilton Township in a state department of highways sedan when he failed to negotiate a slight right hand curve, crossing to the left side of the road and crashing into a tree, according to Stroudsburg State Police, who investigated the incident at 2:30 p.m. Thursday. The vehicle was demolished.

Authority meeting

EAST STROUDSBURG — The Redevelopment Authority of Monroe County has rescheduled its regular meeting for Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. in the offices at 149 East Broad St., East Stroudsburg.

Pleasant Valley lowers tax

BROOKHEADSVILLE — The Pleasant Valley School Board, Thursday, approved a 1968-1969 record budget of $359,515 but lowered its real estate millage two mills, from 42 to 40 mills. Next year's budget is $140,203 above this year's $111,312 budget.

The board re-enacted the one per cent real estate transfer tax as a continuing tax, amended the $5 per capita tax under Act 511, and enacted the $5 per capita tax under Act 679 as a continuing tax.

Adoption of the budget will take place at the board's regular June meeting, June 27.

The one per cent earned income tax for the 1968-1969 school year, with the school district receiving one-half mill from district residents, netted the district $16,000.

Budget expenditures are:

instruction, $513,680; administration, $40,275; plant operation, $58,075; transportation, $83,795 and debt service, $100,664 plus other expenditures.

The board appointed Jerome Blakeslee board treasurer.

replacing Virginia Stiff; retained Lester Brown, board solicitor, by a 7-1 vote. Mrs. Nettie Romansavage casting the lone negative vote; retained Crane and Gordon, certified public accountants, setting a ceiling of $1,200 for the services, with a vote of 7-1, with Mrs. Romansavage again casting the lone negative vote. The board awarded the kindergarten furniture bid of $952 to Schindler, Inc.

P.V. board argues over methods of hiring teachers

BROOKHEADSVILLE — The method of hiring teachers at the Pleasant Valley High School produced table banging from the high school principal and some unusual questions and replies from a Pleasant Valley School Board member Thursday during the board's monthly meeting in the high school.

Hiring of an East Stroudsburg

State College girl who will graduate this June was being considered by the board when board member Mrs. Nettie Romansavage requested a period of 30 days in advance of hiring teacher applicants so that the applicant could be considered after an appearance before the board.

The teacher in question was unable to appear during the board meeting to meet the board.

Wally Butz, high school principal, banged his fist on the table and told Mrs. Romansavage that the board had already hired teachers without an interview. Later Butz apologized for banging the table.

Board member Joseph Decker asked Mrs. William Weiss, a substitute teacher at the high school for the last two years if she attended church and Sunday School.

Mrs. Weiss said answered yes. Decker then said, "I'd hate to hire a teacher that would be an atheist."

Decker in objecting to the ESSC teacher applicant not being present at the meeting made a motion that any teaching applicant should appear before the board and make an application 10 days before the board meeting.

The board approved the motion by a 7-1 vote, Jerome Blakeslee casting the lone negative vote.

Resort meeting

State Rep. J. Russell Eshback and Loren Tachelder, president of the Eastern Poconos Resort Assn., confer before the association's annual dinner Thursday night in Vacation Valley. Eshback, chairman of the House Committee on Tourism, announced the committee will tour the Poconos June 10 and 11.

Search for woman continues

STROUDSBURG — The search for an unidentified injured woman is continuing one week since the incident was reported by a phone call to the Stroudsburg State Police last Friday at 1:30 a.m.

Investigation seems to be at a standstill because police cannot identify the wounded woman. A complete search was made and area police forces alerted for "a white female of slender build with shoulder length light hair, wearing a light colored flower print house dress with short sleeves and believed to be between 45 and 50 years of age."

Stroudsburg State Police received the call from a man who also remains unidentified, telling them of a woman who was seen while he was travelling along Business Route 209 north of Shafter's Inn.

The woman was walking on the highway and appeared wounded from cuts

S-burg plans area analysis

STROUDSBURG — A neighborhood analysis of the Borough of Stroudsburg was initiated Thursday night by the Stroudsburg Citizens Advisory Committee.

The neighborhood analysis, a part of an urban renewal workable program, will include a survey of the housing conditions throughout the borough.

Barry Trethaway, chairman, said the action taken by the group will lead to a comprehensive survey of the housing conditions.

Motor club tours serene valley which will be DWNRA

By BERT WALTER

Pocono Record Reporter
ALONG THE DELAWARE — The long, thin branches of the tall hardwood trees formed a green archway as the big red and silver bus cruised along the narrow winding Shawnee Road, Thursday morning.

"We are now in the boundary of the Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area," Albert Dillahunty, DWNRA historian, said into the microphone as the bus approached the H. Lee residence.

"The road is the park boundary," the tall slender Tennesseean drawled, "every thing you see on your right will be the park."

The nearly 35 persons from the "AAA" Motor Club of Northeastern Pennsylvania relaxed in their seats and viewed the scenery as the first few moments of the three and one-half hour tour of the Tocks Island Area elapsed.

A few miles up the road, the intercom microphone clicked: "On your right, just on the other side of these trees is Tocks Island. Stop here, driver. We are now in the path of the earth filled dam the Corps of Engineers will build to back up the waters of the Delaware River," Dillahunty said.

A few feet beyond was a farm and buildings which Dillahunty explained, will be in the path of the 3,200 foot long dam. The dam will be 455 feet above sea level.

On the left of the highway began the 1,000 foot steep slope of a hill on top of which will be a viewing platform for the public to see the progress of the dam.

"Incidentally, there is a coal reef at the viewing platform site which is 112 million years old," Dillahunty explained.

Numerous Monroe County residents, including East Stroudsburg Mayor Thomas Kistler, joined the tour.

As the bus reached the Riverside Colony, just off the left of the highway, Dillahunty said that "this will all be underwater." The water will be 140 feet deep.

The men and two women looked more earnestly out the tinted windows, realizing that in 1977 — or later — the area they were driving through will be a mass of water.

While passing Camp Ministerium, Dillahunty said that the area will become a beach with picnicking facilities.

The bus continued through the rolling hills and green foliage until it reached Route 209 by The Fernwood.

Passing through the village of Bushkill, which will be inundated, the party moved along Route 209 toward Dingmans Ferry. Thomas Harrington, District Four Engineer, and Karl Witherow, District Five engineer from the Pennsylvania Highway Department, were on the tour.

Boster explained that the highway will be underwater and therefore relocated.

The AAA members from the eight county Northeastern Pennsylvania District, which has a membership of 60,000 persons, took the tour to prepare and see first hand the changes which will be made in the region so that they can meet demands on its services.

Passing through Dingmans Ferry, the bus crossed the private bridge spanning the Delaware River which brought the group into Sussex County, N. J.

On the New Jersey side of the bridge, a large white sign with red and black letters greeted the group and Robert Uggie, executive director of the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau, with the legend, "Welcome to Sussex County. Gateway to the Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area."

The bus drove onto the Old Mine Road, constructed by the Dutch in 1650. The group, several miles down the road, stopped at the historic Isaac Van Campen home and farm which the Park Service will reconstruct.

Continuing up the Wallpack Valley and then down into the village of Millbrook, Dillahunty explained that the now nearly nonexistent village will be rebuilt by the Park Service.

The remainder of the tour brought the group down the New Jersey side in the shadow of the Kittatinny Ridge until Delaware Water Gap was reached.

With rain beginning to fall, the bus pulled into the Holiday Inn at 1:15 p.m. for lunch and an address by Peter DeGelleke, superintendent of the DWNRA, and Boster.

DeGelleke explained that construction of the dam probably couldn't be started in 1969 as originally scheduled. He was unable to state definitely whether the projects could be complete by the 1977 target date.

He did state however, that he envisions a slow development. Explaining that federal appropriations for the Corps of Engineers are coming in slow, DeGelleke added that the park service which is getting its money faster, will develop areas outside of the reservoir.

These areas include camping facilities at Hidden Lake, Millbrook and Silver Lake Areas.

Along the 100 mile reservoir shoreline the Park Service will create 25 beaches which can accommodate 60,000 persons at one given time.

Boster explained that TIRM is planning to meet the changes which the $203 million federal projects will affect.

Clifford Cramer was master of ceremonies during the luncheon and brief business meeting of the AAA.

Other officials attending were AAA president Roy Stauffer;

AAA directors; Monroe County Highway Superintendent William Quinn, and Foster Blair, executive director of the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce. Allan C. Munsinger, executive vice president of the AAA, arranged the tour.

Peter DeGelleke, superintendent of the Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area, pointed out a spot on a map to Clifford Cramer, master of ceremonies during a tour of DWNRA made by the American Automobile Assn.

Pocono Mountain cites senior letter winners

SWIFTWATER — "The year of the Cardinals" came closer to the end Thursday night as 280 persons gathered in Pocono Mountain High School to honor the school's athletes.

Pocono Mountain is nearing the end of the greatest athletic season in the school's history. The combined record of 11 of the Cardinals teams to date is 103-35-8.

Athletic director Ron Davis, in reviewing the season, noted football had its best season ever, 6-4. Other records were girl's field hockey, 5-0-2 varsity and 3-2-3 junior varsity; boy's basketball, 16-6 (best in the school's history); junior varsity basketball, 19-3; Girl's basketball 12-1 and the Lehigh-Northampton League championship; wrestling, 7-6-1; rifle, 16-2 and the District 11 championship; baseball, 11-3 with two games remaining; track 4-6 and golf, 4-2-1.

One of the highlights of the evening was the naming of the four top female athletes in the school as picked by the girls themselves. The quartet included Janet Davis, basketball; Kathy Wertheimer, field hockey; Brenda Bertrum, rifle, and Wendy Batchler, cheerleading.

Ed Watto, head wrestling coach, awarded trophies to Ed Coover, most improved wrestler (10-3-1 as compared to 4-4-1 in 1967) and Ed Getz as the outstanding boy (11-3 record).

Gary Kirkwood, the first 1,000-point player in the school's history, was awarded the first Pocono Sports Shop trophy. The trophy was presented by John Quick.

Head basketball coach Al Shollenberger also presented 50 feet of film clips to each of the six seniors. They were Kirkwood, Al Vican, Rich Koberlein, Steve McMaster, John Gantzhorn and Dave Kresge.

Senior plaques
Tony Cebula and Bill Woehle, members of the Pocono Mountain Boosters Club, presented plaques to each of the senior letter winners.

Lettering in three sports were Koberlein and Bob Conklin. Double winners were Bob Crowl, John Gantzhorn, Rodney Gabel, Kirkwood, McMaster, Getz, John Darben and Bill Below.

Winning letters in one sport were, Roger Greer, Wayne Bromberg, Julio Schindler, Gary Bloss, Larry Bitterman, Paige Wilson, Warren Springer, Jim Siglin, Cliff Jones, John Assure, Barry Marshall, Bill Wright, Kirk Henning, Steve Brosicous, Bob Yarbrough, Dave Toms, Doug Miller, Vican and Kresge.

Girls lettering in two sports include Donna Schmoeyer, Janet Schmatz, Barbara Christman, Paula Thomas, Kathy Wertheimer, Bev Frantz, Janet Davis, Harriet Cramer and Wendy Batchler.

Receiving plaques for one letter were Brenda Bertrum, Dawn Martin, Ann Calhoun, Lisa Drake, Barbara Kelly, Diane McCambridge, Brenda Post, Jeanne Halstcan and Flora Heller.

Individual trophies were also awarded to each member of the Cardinales basketball team.

Miss Davis and Miss Wertheimer, representing the girls, presented flowers to coaches Mrs. Kate Rowe and Mrs. Toni Patten.

The guest speaker was LeRoy Heckman, who guided the Lehigh University basketball team to its first winning season in 19 years.

Heckman devoted most of his speech towards helping the athlete decide the type of college he will attend. Heckman listed the following things as a guide:

1. Location.
2. Courses offered.
3. Academic rating.
4. Cost and expense (the big item).
5. Size of school.
6. Athletic program.

Brief remarks were also given by Dr. William Nye, superintendent of schools and Lawrence Williams, high school principal. William Jannett acted as master of ceremonies.

Giants take game lead over Cards

ATLANTA (AP) — Ron Hunt led off the ninth inning with a single and scored on a passed ball as San Francisco beat Atlanta 5-4 Thursday night and moved to a one-game lead in the National League.

The Giants began the day in a virtual tie with the St. Louis Cardinals for first place, but took a one-half game lead when Los Angeles beat the Cards 3-2. Hunt moved to second on Jim Davenport's sacrifice and took third when Ty Cline grounded out. Then Braves' substitute catcher Marty Martinez, who took over for Joe Torre in the eighth, let one of Cecil Upshaw's pitches get passed him and Hunt raced home.

Torre singled home Hank Aaron in the eighth to tie the score 4-4, after Aaron's triple had scored Tito Francona. Torre's hit was his fourth of the game. He homered in the third.

Hitters have been thrown a curve

Rookies coming by way of mound

NEW YORK (AP) — Big league pitchers are showing an over-all mastery of the batters, so why shouldn't the rookie pitchers be ahead of the rookie hitters?

That's been the story so far this season with most of the star first year players coming by way of the mound instead of the plate.

Pitchers Ron Reed of Atlanta and Jerry Koosman and Nolan Ryan of the New York Mets have moved in front for rookie honors in the National League.

Free agent draft set

NEW YORK (AP) — The summer free agent baseball draft will be held at the Hotel Americana June 6-7, according to Commissioner William D. Eckert.

Seattle and Kansas City, the American League's two expansion clubs for 1969, will participate but only in the Class A round through their lower minor league affiliates.

Pending a decision on National League expansion, existing National League teams also will select in the special expansion round.

Each major league club is permitted to draft one player from the free agent field.

Stan Bahnsen of the New York Yankees, another hurler, appears to be the standout freshman in the American.

The hitters? They seem to have been thrown a curve.

Frank Johnson, San Francisco third baseman, has the highest average among the nonpitching rookies, and he's hitting only .263 after 57 times at bat. Outfielder Del Unser of Washington is next with a .256 mark followed by catcher Johnny Bench of Cincinnati, .254.

Reed, a right-hander, has won five games and lost none for the Braves. His earned run average is a nifty 2.13 and he's fanned 24 batters and walked 14.

Koosman has a 6-2 record with a 1.55 ERA. The southpaw has struck out 49 and walked only 15. Ryan, a righty fireballer, has 65 strikeouts—second highest total in the NL—and a 4-3 record to go with a 1.57 ERA.

Bahnsen, also a righty, has won four games and lost one with a 2.47 ERA, 33 strikeouts and 14 bases on balls.

And there have been other rookie pitchers who have looked promising. The list includes Jim Britton of Atlanta and Mike Tor-rez of St. Louis, each 2-1, and Bob Moose of Pittsburgh, 3-2, in the National League. In the American, reliever Jon Warden of Detroit is 3-0, Dave Leonhard of Baltimore is 2-2 and Les Cain, Detroit, is 1-0 with only one earned run charged against him in 19 1-3 innings.

Only once since the Rookie of the Year award was first presented in 1949 have pitchers won it in both leagues the same season. That was in 1952 when the awards were given to Joe Black of the Brooklyn Dodgers and Harry Byrd of the Philadelphia Athletics.

Rallye winners

Happy first place contestants in the 5th Annual Mustang Road Rallye are Mr. and Mrs. George Wasser, Jr., East Stroudsburg, who receive trophies and congratulations from Rallye chairman, Harold (Skip) Johnson, president of Vernon-Cadby Ford, Verona, N.J. They were among 3,500 contestants in some 1,500 cars entered in the popular motorsports event.

McLendon, Lunn lead Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — B. R. McLendon, winner of the Magnolia Classic last week in his first professional tournament, shot an eagle three on the 18th hole Thursday to tie Bob Lunn at five-under-par 65 for the first-round lead of the $100,000 Memphis Open Golf Tournament.

McLendon, three time South-eastern Conference champion from Louisiana State University, drilled in a 20-foot putt for the eagle after reaching the green with a one iron from the fairway.

McLendon, 22, from Birmingham, Ala., had not played the back nine at the Colonial Country Club course here until Thursday. He practiced on the front nine early Wednesday.

Lunn, who had never played the course previously, concentrated on accuracy, not distance, in the opening round. Immediately after scoring his 65, Lunn headed for a nearby public course to practice.

Pleasant V. honors trio at dinner

BRODHEADSVILLE — Three men connected with Pleasant Valley High School athletics received plaques Wednesday night at the sixth annual awards dinner.

Wally Butz, who will retire in June as principal; Ed Arnold, president of the P.V. Booster Club, and Art Smith, director of athletics, were recipients of the awards. The awards were given by club officers Robert Binick and Steve Gordon.

Featured speaker was Dr. John McKee, East Stroudsburg State soccer coach. Band awards were given by Floyd Frisbie, cheerleading by Mrs. Judith Hirsch, girls' awards by Mrs. Joan Bunnell and boys' awards by Roy Antolick, Steve Kun, Richard Shoopak, James Taylor, Arthur Smith, Donald Rinker and Joseph Scheks.

Vukovich turns in best time

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Rain let up enough for only 40 minutes of practice at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway Thursday. Nineteen cars were on the track, mainly testing mechanical refinements for this weekend's qualifying runs.

The fastest time of the day was turned in by Bill Vukovich of Fresno, Calif., who had a best lap of 164.444 m.p.h. in the No. 97 Laycock Mongoose. Vukovich, whose father twice won the Indianapolis 500 and was killed in a wreck at the track, is almost certain to qualify for this year's race.

Other good speeds Thursday were Ronnie Bucknum's 163.369 m.p.h. in the No. 45 Eagle-Ford, and Bruce Walkup's 161.290 in the No. 62 Hayhoe, turbocharged Offenhauser.

Foster 12-5 favorite over Tiger

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Tiger, the durable old man of the ring from Biafra, is a 12-5 underdog to Bob Foster, the rangy challenger, in Friday night's world light heavyweight title bout at Madison Square Garden.

The 15-round match, scheduled for 9:30 p.m., EDT, will be Tiger's third defense of the 175-pound championship he won from Jose Torres in 1966.

Win or lose, as soon as the match is over, Tiger plans to hurry home to Africa where he is a lieutenant in the Biafran army, fighting a war of independence against Nigeria.

Tiger's concern for his native land and his wife and seven children back home apparently has not affected his training. He has been impressive in his work at the new Garden gym despite his age which is listed at 38 in the Ring record book although some say he may be older.

Unless the net proceeds from the live gate and a special television network top $160,000, it will cost Foster's backers money just to show up.

They have guaranteed the champ $100,000 and are taking 60 per cent of the entire proceeds. The fight is the end of a long trail for Foster, who has pursued the title for years.

The bout will be carried nationally on home television by Sports Network, Inc., but the New York area will be blacked out. There will be no radio broadcast.

The 29-year old Foster's big advantages are his height and reach. The challenger from Washington, D. C., will tower over the 5-foot-8 Tiger at 6-foot-3½. His reach is 79 inches to the champ's 71. The ex-Air Force

Experience, naturally, is on Tiger's side. He has fought 76 times in a busy career dating back to 1952 and owns a 58-15-3 record. The Tiger, a busy boxer but not great slugger, has knocked out 26 opponents and never has been stopped.

Foster, born in Texas, reared in New Mexico and now fighting out of Washington, has been fighting on and off since 1961. His record for 33 pro starts is 29-4 with 21 knockouts.
